Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 35-45, 51-55, and 60-70, drawn to a method of making Ca silicate hydrate using suspension agent.

Group II, claim(s) 46-50, drawn to a Ca silicate hydrate product.

Group III, claim(s) 56-59, drawn to a reactable "matrix" (actually the intermediate gel product of Ca gel and silaceous material that when heated will form Ca silicate hydrate).

The inventions listed as Groups II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: Claim 46 is either obvious or anticipated over Oguri et al. '611 or '320 or '257, Uchida et al. '958, Helser '397, Shannon et al. '380, Williams et al. '746, Kubo '324, WO 01/14274 (Mathur), WO 98/45222 (James Hardie), EP 78119 (Horton), GB 99702 A (Johns Manville), Derwent Abstract 89-161597/22, JP 11079729 A (Chichibu Onoda Cement), or Lecture (US 5,709,743).

Note: Italicized references added to rejection as they were indicated as X references on International PCT search report and added for completeness.

All of the above cited references teach a calcium silicate hydrate product anticipating applicants' instant claims. Even if not anticipated, overlapping ranges of amounts would have been prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art. Even if not all references teach post reaction solids content of greater than 35 wt%, control of this property would have been an obvious design choice for one of ordinary skill in the art. The Ca silicate hydrate slurry can have an increased solids content by increased filter pressing and dewatering as well as continued drying to remove non-desired water content. As the recited Group II Ca silicate hydrate product does not make a contribution over the prior art, unity of invention is lacking and restriction is appropriate.

Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper because all these inventions listed in this action are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious search and examination burden if restriction were not required because one or more of the following reasons apply:

- (a) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification;
- (b) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art due to their recognized divergent subject matter;
- (c) the inventions require a different field of search (for example, searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries);
- (d) the prior art applicable to one invention would not likely be applicable to another invention;
- (e) the inventions are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention.

If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable upon the elected invention.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.
